

The Story of RootsCamp

Once upon a time,
a few dozen people gathered in locations around their City.

There was no plan, only open minds.
They wrote their ideas on white boards.

People met. People talked.

They understood each other.

They did it again and again.

Before they parted, they gathered together
to share what they had learned.

They left with new ideas.

And a plan to do it again.

Bloomington RootsCamp

An open conference to discuss the recent political election.

Friday November 17 | Saturday November 18

<http://rootscamp.pbwiki.com/RootsCampBloomingtonIN>